After a BBA at SBS, I decided to continue with the Master of Science program to get even deeper understanding of the subject. I wanted to get quality business education in a multicultural environment, with small classes and a personalized experience. I found all that at SBS Swiss Business School. Not only did it help me understand business from different points of view, but also to develop my analytical and critical thinking skills. I also met people from different backgrounds and cultures, which allowed me to widen my perspective and develop my communication skills. I graduated with a higher confidence in my knowledge and my soft skills, which allows me to be more competitive in the job market. I liked everything, from the concentrated attention, to the highly varied faculty and curriculum, without forgetting the support from the administrative team, which is crucial for a student embarking in a new adventure in a foreign country, away from family and friends. Definitely. I believe SBS offers the same education as any Ivy League business school, combined with the personal focus and an interactivity that they lack.
